II.A. Uses of Education Stabilization funds by LEAs

Provide a concise narrative of how LEAs in your state have generally used Education Stabilization funds, and the impact that the funds had on elementary and secondary education in your State from October 1, 2010 to September 30, 2011:

Entry from previous timeframe:

Alaska LEAs have generally used Education Stimulus funds in five broad categories that reflect the priorities of the ARRA funding: 1. Professional Development for staff; 2. Increasing the effectiveness and use of technology, 3. Classroom materials, 4. School system upgrades, modernization and repairs; and 5. Employee salaries and benefits. Alaska Stabilization funds are being spent on activities authorized by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, the Adult and Family Literacy Act, or the Carl Perkins Career and Technical Education Act of 2006, or for modernization, renovation, repair or construction of public school facilities. ESEA also includes broad Impact Aid authority, and therefore districts used stabilization funds for activities that are allowable under Impact Aid, regardless of whether the district usually receives Impact Aid. (Section 14003 ARRA) Education funds provided through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) have provided a unique opportunity to jump start school reform and improvement efforts while also saving and creating jobs and stimulating the Alaska economy. It is anticipated that these one-time resources being spent in in these five categories will lead to improved results for students, long-term gains in school and school system capacity, and increased productivity and effectiveness.

Please update for the new timeframe:

VI. Progress in Advancing Education Reform

A. Reducing inequities in the distribution of highly qualified teachers:

Describe the steps that the State has taken, from October 1, 2010 through September 30, 2011, to reduce inequities in the distribution of highly qualified teachers.

Entry from previous timeframe:

The department has used its monitoring cycle as well as the plans submitted by districts to determine progress being made in this area. The department has worked with districts to identify the inequities in the distribution of HQTs that exist in school districts through the districts' Highly Qualified Teacher Plans. Each district is required to list the strategies it is using "to ensure that poor and minority students and students in schools at AYP Level 2 & above are not being taught by inexperienced, not highly qualified, or out-of-field teachers at higher rates than other students." In TA sessions districts have shared ideas for what works within their districts with other districts. Many school districts are using distance delivery to ensure that students are being taught by highly qualified teachers. Some districts are restricting within district transfers to teachers who are highly qualified. Some middle and high schools use software programs for scheduling courses so that teachers cannot teach courses for which they are not highly qualified.

Please update for the new timeframe:
